The theme Threads of Grace invites women to gather and reflect on the story of Esther, a tale woven with courage, faith, and divine providence. Just as Esther stepped boldly into her calling to save her people, we are reminded that God's grace works through the threads of our own lives and within our communities. Together, we will explore how our unique stories are interconnected, creating a beautiful tapestry of support, strength, and purpose. Through prayer, fellowship, and shared experiences, this retreat will encourage women to embrace their roles in God's greater design and find grace in every moment, just as Esther did in her time of uncertainty and triumph.

Introducing Rev. Jesse Fleck

Reverend Jesse Fleck is a dedicated local pastor in the Tennessee-Western Kentucky Conference of the United Methodist Church with over 18 years of ministry experience. Her journey in ministry has included roles in church administration, youth and college ministry, and pastoral leadership, equipping her to connect with people of all ages and backgrounds.

Jesse currently serves in the Red River District as the pastor of Bethel and Woodlawn United Methodist Churches, where she is passionate about guiding others to grow in their faith and live out God's love in the world. She is also pursuing a degree in Organizational Leadership at Dakota Wesleyan University while completing the Course of Study at Candler School of Theology, blending academic growth with practical ministry experience.

Jesse lives in Clarksville, Tennessee, with her husband of 30 years, Trevor, and their beloved boxer, Nala. Jesse has a deep love for preaching and teaching about God's radical love for all people. She finds joy in encouraging and inspiring others to embrace and walk in God's abundant grace.
